FOG GREEN

Cloud and Fog green tea is a specially prepared blend from China, which grows only in the mysterious Lu Mountains. The area has a uniquely foggy climate, which envelops the tea plants, and creates a wonderfully mellow and sweet flavor, and an extra healthy tea leaf that has been enjoyed for many centuries.

Until recently this tea would be impossible to sample unless you were in the region. Now you can enjoy Fog Green delivered straight to your door, and feel a connection to the mystical mountains of a far-away land.

The mist helps the tea to produce much higher levels of antioxidants than standard green tea, for a natural boost of wellbeing that you can feel with every sip. This gentle tea is harvested during the ancient spring festival of Qing Ming, and the early harvest makes the delicate Fog Green even more subtle and light.

For an extra healthy and unique tea that offers a gentle and sweet taste, and that gives way to a crisp and refreshing finish, Cloud and Fog tea is the perfect choice!

HOJICHA

Hojicha is a green tea with a difference... It doesn't look green by the time it has undergone its natural process. Hojicha is roasted over charcoal at a very high temperature, which turns the leaves from green to a light-reddish brown, and allows the earthy, roasted flavors to dominate over the more vegetative tastes of other green teas.

This process was born in Kyoto in Japan in the 1920s, making it a relatively new blend, but one that has been gaining popularity ever since, for its unique flavors and aromas, but also for its lower caffeine content. The roasting process reduces the amount of caffeine in the beverage, and so is often enjoyed with an evening meal, or even before bed.

Our Hojicha tea is made using completely organic and natural green tea leaves from Japan, which are authentically roasted to give a slightly nutty and sweet, and almost caramel undertone, with a strong roasted aroma, and a low caffeine drink suitable for any time of the day.
